"The Ottawa Spotlight"

A Weekly Review of National Affairs

By Willard Eggleston

Ottawa, July 29th.—The glacial way in which governments move causes great irritation to business leaders and boosters for dictatorship. You can't blame the leaders altogether. In a democratic country such as Canada likes to think itself, it is useless to make drastic reforms very far ahead of public opinion. Actually, public opinion is usually ahead of governments, and has to push leaders in order to get action. It is Mr. Mackenzie King's view that such is the proper order of events in a democratic state. Once the people want anything badly and solidly enough, no matter what it is, they can get it. It's discouraging, but it is the only valuable alternative to dictatorship.

Take the business of bringing the Canadian constitution up to date. It is an imperialist status quo, but in 1925, when Canada was an agricultural colony with a population of about 3 1/2 million, before the radio, the airplane, the automobile, and the modern methods of other similar inventions, before the opening of the prairies, the exploitation of the north, the arising of a strong feeling of nationalism in Canada. Everybody who gives the matter any serious thought agrees that no matter how magnificent that 1925 constitution was in 1925, it is inadequate to deal with the present day Canada.

Ten years ago you couldn't have created a majority of opinion favoring an amendment, perhaps just in 1925, parliamentary committee representing all parties could sit and take for granted the need of changes. The provinces were canvassed, and while they did not see the propriety of appearing before a federal committee to give testimony, their replies assumed that changes were necessary.

Not Much Nearer
Now it is 1937. We do not seem to be much nearer an amendment. One attempt, in the months of 1925, was killed in the Senate. A few months ago several of the provinces were notified of the need for a re-writing of the constitution that they played for a royal commission.

Four months or so ago, a royal commission was agreed upon by the Dominion Government. At the end of April, several weeks later, matter had progressed so far as the completion of its reference. Then began the business of choosing the personnel. Some ministers were stoutly opposed to selection of overseas experts. They wanted an all-Canadian board. Executive authorities were approached and were found unavailable. The prime minister had the matter set up on the agenda, but it was turned to Canada, but ten days passed without an announcement.

Not does the appointment of a royal commission mean that the British North America Act will be revised this year or perhaps next. After all, this is a federal royal commission. The provinces may treat it the way they did the federal parliamentary committee. Or they may treat it as a tribunal of appeal for the better terms. It may degenerate into a "Gimme, Gimme" circus. It is an academic and technical body, and when all is said and done, the major changes to revision of the constitution are political. If the constitution is amended it will be at a gathering of statesmen—that is, politicians—in their higher moments. When the royal commission has sat, all across the country has gathered evidence, has received representations and petitions, and then, at length, has rendered its report. The beginning will only have been accomplished.

A Representative Gathering
After that, it will be necessary to have a constitutional convention, or a gathering of Dominion and Provincial authorities under some other name, high sounding name. A National Congress, if you will. There will have to be much give and take, and the abandonment of sectional and petty politics before such a body can make any progress at all.

Nonetheless, provincial parties will rise and fall as elections are held. It is quite possible that an issue will rise on which the federal government will fight with the provinces without consulting the people. A general election may be fought out on the matter, anyone, therefore, who expects the amendment of the constitution as something for 1937 or 1938 is evidently not reckoning with political realities. Meanwhile there are stresses and inequities, known to exist for years, growing, in many cases, more intolerable every year. The provinces, by the present arrangement, have social and other obligations quite out of keeping with their revenue sources. Canada is becoming a very backward country in some respects, because of constitutional obstacles. Yet what prospect is there of speedy change?

A TRUE FISH STORY

"Some go fishing and bring home fish
And some go fishing that damn!"
(Apologies to Bobbly Burns) but the veracity of the following story from New Brunswick is vouchered for.

Dr. Dixon of Sackville, N. B., celebrated his 77th birthday by staging a fishing trip. He with a comrade some 50 years younger drew 200 miles to a place where good fish are known to be found. The methods used were trolling and pegging. In a wager put up by the two friends the senior man, despite his 77, were carried off the palm in each case. In a very few hours Dr. Dixon captured 177 lbs of fish, the smallest weighing 1 lb and the largest 15. Most of the fish caught were Pollack. Dr. Dixon was 50 years ago honored with the degree of LL.D. from Dalhousie University, which the reporter of the Sackville Post translated as long lived dexterity.

W. H. BRODIE, OTTAWA WILL CONDUCT CLASSES THROUGHOUT CANADA

In an effort to raise the standard of radio instruction throughout Canada, W. H. Brodie, Ottawa, who has been engaged by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will be in Calgary on August 2 and 4, in the course of a tour from Port William to Vancouver to coach and instruct local announcers in the proper use of the English language.

In announcing the appointment of Mr. Brodie the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation says that it is determined that the standard of announcing should be raised.

Today, the radio is rapidly taking its place as an important influence in the formation of public taste in English usage. People generally are becoming more and more conscious and critical of speech and utterances.

Two wild geese, branded on the right foot were sent to the Bird Sanctuary in Calgary by J. H. Hone, July 29.

ALBERTA WEEKLIES MOURN DEATH OF H. G. MCCREA

The death Tuesday, July 27th of Herbert G. McCrea, editor and founder of the Hanna Herald, leaves a gap in the news and particularly in the Alberta Weekly newspaper press that cannot be filled. Possessed of the keenest intellect and unwavering courage, he and his paper have been outstanding in their championship of our cause or movement which he deemed was for the betterment of the Province and forced in his opposition to that which he deemed unworthy.

Suffering from ill health during his last years his dauntless spirit was the result of his championship of our cause or movement which he deemed was for the betterment of the Province and forced in his opposition to that which he deemed unworthy.

Mr. McCrea was born in Peterboro in 1862. He came West in 1895. He started his newspaper career in Langdon on the Langdon Leader, which was then operated by L. E. Nesbitt, now Publicity Commissioner for the Alberta Wheat Pool, who has been a close friend of Mr. McCrea and his family ever since. In 1912 he moved to Hanna and founded the Hanna Herald. His work with the local paper is considered as one of the outstanding contributions to the development of the community.

In 1912 Mr. McCrea married Miss Lottie Steadley of Hanna. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Lillian, now Mrs. J. B. Mack, his mother in law, and a brother Harold W. McCrea, well known artist of Toronto, who are now in Hanna at the time of his death.

The funeral will be held in Hanna Friday, July 30th and a host of friends will travel to Hanna for the purpose of attending the funeral.

Mr. Charles Saunders, whose Marquis wheat made western Canada the granary of the world, died quietly at his home in Toronto, Sunday. He was 79 years old in February and had been in poor health for several months.

He was knighted in 1924 for his service to Canada and the Empire in developing the early rye Marquis wheat, which established the Canadian hard wheat as the standard for the world. Sir Charles had been living here in retirement for eight years.

A complication of ailments sent the famed cerealist to his bed two weeks ago. Early Sunday his condition took a turn for the worse and a doctor and his brother, Henry Saunders of Toronto, were summoned to his bedside. Death came shortly after noon.

Sir Charles was born in London, Ontario, and there another brother W. E. Saunders, widely known naturalist, and his only sister, Miss Annie Saunders, reside. W. E. Saunders, traveling in Quebec, could not be reached in time to come to his brother's bedside. Two other brothers, Percy and Charles, N. Y., and Fred of Cambridge Mass, also survive.

Canada's wheat fields were being opened in the 1890's when Sir Charles' father, Dr. William Saunders, was head of the Dominion experimental farms and Charles and a brother, A. F., assisted in the work of developing grain strains.

Charles tested the gluten qualities of different grains and finally picked a cross between Red Fife, a wheat grown extensively in Eastern Canada, and hard Red Calcutta, imported from India by his father.

The new strain almost immediately became widely accepted and today it is grown across the broad areas of western Canada and the United States.

Its production has put millions of dollars into the pockets of growers and grainmen of the two countries and has won world recognition.

Burial in London
Sir Charles was graduated from the University of Toronto in 1884 and for a year was professor of chemistry and geology at Central University, Kentucky. In 1902, after his sensational success with Marquis wheat, Sir Charles became Canada's first Dominion cerealist. His work for the Canadian agricultural consisted in painstaking selection of crosses and varieties of seeds. He later originated Garnet wheat, a strain more suited to the northern prairies and it was developed by his successor, L. H. Newnan.

Interment was made in London, Ontario, Tuesday 30th.

Here's a school examination booklet with a lot of truth in it. "I've been in the art of not returning books borrowed."

I know that we must trust and hope, and neither doubt ourselves nor doubt the good in one another.

Railway Officials Inspect Canada's First Road-Rail Car

THE first tests to be made in Canada of a new type of automobile vehicle which links highway and railway will be commenced within the next two weeks on branch lines in the north-western Canadian National System. The first of these "Auto-Railcars" which will be tried out on branch lines in Ontario and Quebec, is now ready for service. It was inspected recently by S. J. Hungerford, Chairman and President of U.S. Canadian National, and a number of headquarters officials.

Chief of Motive Power and Car Equipment pointing out to President Hungerford the flanged wheels which are let down or drawn up to change from road to rail operation. This operation is controlled from the driver's seat and requires only one minute's time. In the group (left to right) are Mr. B. W. C. Chief of Transportation, Mr. Hungerford, Mr. Roberts, and R. L. Fairbairn, Manager, Passenger Service Bureau.

In addition to the three passenger road-railers one freight carrier for use on either road or rail will be tried out.

In announcing the purchase of this equipment Mr. Hungerford emphasized that the move was of an experimental nature and was intended to permit of tests being made on various sections of the system as to the adaptability of these cars for use in Canada. It is believed they will cut down operating costs very considerably on light traffic branch lines and at the same time give better service to the public dependent upon such lines.

It is good to be out on the road, and going one knows not where.

Going through meadows and villages, one knows not whither or why.

Through the grey light drift of the dust, in the keen cool rush of the air.

Under the flying white clouds, and the broad blue lift of the sky;

And to halt at the clattering brook, in the tall green fern at the brink. Where the harebell grows, and the gorse, and the foxgloves purple and white;

Where the sky-eyed delicate deer troop down to the pools to drink. When the stars are yellow and large at the coming on of the night.

O, to feed the warmth of the rain, and the hoarsely small of the earth, is a time for the blood to jig to, a joy past power of words;

And the blessed green comely meadows deem all strife with mirth. At the bill of the shifting feet and the dear wild cry of the birds.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science Churches next Sunday, the subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Love." The following is one of the Scriptural quotations contained in the Lesson-Sermon: "But ye, beloved, building up yourselves on your most holy faith, praying the Holy Ghost, keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life." (Jude 1:20-21). One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows (page 69): "Ask yourself, Am I loving the life that approaches the supreme good? Am I demonstrating the healing power of Truth and Love? If so, then the way will grow brighter unto the perfect day."

WORLD GRAIN SHORTAGE IS NOT FEARED

Present Price Discounts All Damage to Canadian Crop.

Although western Canada farmers shake their heads and predict a world wheat shortage this year, when it is all over the western crop will only be in the neighborhood of 170 million bushels, the rest of the world is not alarmed and fears no shortage in 1937.

The attitude of British traders is that the present price discounts all damage to Canadian crops. Broomfield says many traders are looking for a crop of 195 million bushels in all Canada, which would give this country 100 million bushels for export, included in this figure is Eastern Canada's production of soft wheat, which will run close to 25 million bushels this year.

Crop Good in U. S. A.

The United States has produced a good winter wheat crop and has a fair spring wheat crop in prospect. The government estimate there is for a total yield of around 882 million bushels which is 236 million bushels larger than last year. It can thus be seen that the increased United States production more than offsets the deficiency in Canadian production.

The production of wheat in the northern hemisphere, excluding Russia and China gives indication of an increase of 272 million bushels over last year. Russia's crop is definitely better than last year and she will probably be an exporter again. China does not put a large figure in international trade. —The Budget.

CANADA'S GOVERNOR GENERAL

Lord Tweedsmuir is certainly "seeing Canada." When the "opportunity" moment came in the selection of his own Library at Inverness, he gave him time to reflect on the different scenes of his tour through the Dominion. It will be an extremely varied panorama that will swirl back in recollection.

Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir are seeing Canada, and will know much of it at first hand, in a way that many of our "Native Sons" do not. The opportunity has of course been theirs in a very special way.

From collecting a love for "better poetry" (for which best poem Lord Tweedsmuir will donate a prize) hearing and seeing Canadian Art, Music and the drama, the dimness of the Red Deer Valley at Drumheller, a reproduction of life on the ranches in the early days as exhibited at the Calgary Stampede, the Indians in all their pride of war-painted and picturesque costume, Eskimo children in their native land and the land of the Midnight Sun, preceded by all the beauty of lake, prairie and mountain will give a memory picture the variety of which could be exceeded in few countries.

In addition to seeing the landscape, etc. Lord Tweedsmuir possesses a keen insight and has a particularly bent for getting at the heart of things. In his addresses he has always some practical and original contribution that gives vitality to his utterances. Withal he has a natural simplicity of manner that wins through to the hearts of the people.

Lady Tweedsmuir's plan of donating libraries to the out of way places has already proved a welcome boon to many denied access to much reading matter.

The Governor General and his wife are not confining the time of their official residence in Canada to the attendance of state functions, receptions, etc., but are intent on knowing the heart of our people in each strata of the social scale. If Lord Tweedsmuir decides to write one more novel, basing his thoughts on his Canadian experiences, we are assured it would tell a most vital and interesting tale.

MARCONI

CQD! CQD! CQD! Nearly thirty years have elapsed since those cryptic letters—since supplanted by SOS—broke in upon the dreary radio keener at Stasconett during the early hours of the morning. For the first time in history a call for help has come crackling over the air waves from a passenger ship in distress. It was the White Star liner Republic, rammed by the steamer Florida in dense fog off Nauyasack, reporting her plight to all within range of her radio.

The world will never quite forget the heroic acts Jack Thorne played from the radio key with the sinking Republic during that calamitous rescue in the winter of 1915. Now will it ever cease to be grateful to that remarkable man whose inventiveness and dash made possible the saving of those 1600 people. They and the number since saved from peril at sea by the wireless bear witness to the immeasurable worth of Guglielmo Marconi's inventive work.

The demands which nations make upon inventors at times clothe them with the dual nature of a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Marconi did not escape these contrasting requirements. In recent years much of his work was given over to research in the laboratory of war. During the height of his country's European conquest, word that Italy's brilliant inventor had perfected a radio beam that would stop an airplane engine dead in the air gave the world an uneasy start.

THE CONSTITUTION WINS

From Washington the news is that the effort to remake the Supreme Court has been "abandoned." Constitutional government was apparently assured when eight independent senators recently resolved to add their votes to the move for recommitment.

Any new measure must be directed strictly to legitimate retirement or reform objectives and be free from the purpose to change the court to fit a legislative program. There must be suggestion of an effort to amend the court instead of the Constitution.

We believe that in the perspective of history the decision made by the people of the United States in the last half year will be recognized as great victory for constitutional government.—Christian Science Monitor.

WITH STAINLESS STEEL DISCS

When you buy a Massey-Harris No. 7 Cream Separator you get a machine that is a proven close skimmer. Every machine must skim to less than .02 of 1% before it leaves the factory. Get the facts from your local Massey-Harris Agent today and make more money from your cream.

GUM-DIPPING is a patented Firestone process not used in any other tire. With it every hundred pounds of cord fabric absorbs eight pounds of rubber and, as a result, every fibre, every cord and every ply in a Firestone tire is coated and insulated with pure rubber to counteract internal heat and friction—the greatest enemy of tire life.

Due to this extra process, Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have 58% longer flexing life. Yet you do not pay one cent more for this extra value. And you also get 2 Extra Cord Plies under the tread and the Firestone Scientifically Designed Safety Tread.
